MEDICALS HOLD LAST MEETING BEFORE XMAS

Dr. Chas. F. Martin was the Speaker of the Evening

MEDICAL ETHICS AND MEDICAL PROFESSORS

Musical Numbers Given by Future Doctors

The final meeting of the Medical Society this term was held last night in the new Medical building. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Chas. F. Martin, Prof. of Medicine in the Medical College.

President J. J. Knowles introduced the popular teacher as "one of the chief medical officers of one of the best hospitals in America." (Dr. Martin is attached to the R. V. H.).

Dr. Martin's subject, "Medical Ethics and the Medical Profession," was presented in a very unusual yet very instructive and interesting manner. The speaker dwelt on many topics. Among the statements presented were, "there is a lack of general practitioners even in a great Medical centre like Montreal."

"Few research men are real epoch-makers—much is written but only a very little is really new or useful."

Enlarging upon the theme, "Ethics," the speaker pointed out the problems involved in maintaining a harmonious relationship between the individual physician and the world at large.

Throughout the whole course of a medical man's dealings with humanity, the code supreme—the very crystal of the medical ethical code—is the universal Golden Rule.

The physician must adjust his actions to include his duty to his patients—to his colleagues, and try to impress upon the laity the duty of the public to the medical profession.

"Don't expect too much from the public—in sympathy or appreciation for services rendered. A fickle public believes that the payment of a bill discharges its personal obligation. A medical man's training won't allow him to put gaining money before the pleasure of seeing a patient cured."

A most unique, interesting and suggestive part of the address dealt with the seeds that had fallen by the wayside of medical education in respect to the value of mental suggestion involved in the various cults of Christian Science, Mesmerism, Emmanuel Movement and Osteopathy, and the value of the medical profession by its "narrow-mindedness" had been so slow to recognize.

"The practitioner doesn't look after the soul enough. There is something good in those that we have failed to use in our practice. Patients don't require medicine so much as they do personality."

The Christian Scientist scores where the physician fails because he creates a personality.

If the doctor had a little more Christianity and the Christian Scientist a little more science—a good nurse would be the only thing wanting. Nature is healing most of our patients anyway. There is nothing new about these suggestive arts—pilgrims go to the shrines of St. Anne de Beatture and Notre Dame de Lourdes and the Mother Church in Boston now—centuries ago they went to the old temples of the healing art to receive help, were some of the enigmatical descriptions.

In closing, the speaker mentioned some of the causes of disease:

1. People talk themselves into being sick.
2. Fear of disease is enough to create the feeling of disease.
3. People are made sick by their own obsessions.

The topics presented last night were very suggestive of wide application, and a discussion of their value before the society would be both interesting and practical.

Urquhart moved a vote of thanks to Dr. Martin, this was seconded by Brown, '15.

A pleasing musical programme was presented by Robinson, '17, Williams, '16; Barrett, '16; Art Brooks, '19, and Poulin, '18.

Emerson Smith, '15, gave a report of the Queen's Medical Dinner, at which he represented McGill.

"Sid" Baldwin thanked the members for electing him as representative in the Students' Council.

Archie Desbriais, '17, the secretary, wore the active service uniform of the Army Medical Corps—a circumstance so unusual as to make it unique in the history of the McGill Medical Society.

BY THE WAY.

Otto De Muth, '15, is a patient in the R. V. Hospital.

"Bob" Fraser, Arts '15, who was injured in a football game a week ago, was discharged from the same institution last night.

Dean Birkett will explain a few points in connection with the McGill General Hospital on Tuesday evening, December 15, at 8.30. All medical students are urged to attend.

THE NEXT MEETING OF THE McGill Chemical Society will be held in the Chemical Building on Tuesday, the 15th, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Professor A. Stansfield will describe a new electric furnace used in metallurgical work. He has also arranged to give a practical demonstration after his lecture is over. This lecture and demonstration will be an excellent opportunity for those who desire to do so to learn some real facts about electric furnace.

As Prof. Stansfield has taken considerable pains to arrange for the demonstration, it is hoped that a record crowd will be present.

FRENCH PLAY TO BE STAGED IN JANUARY

"Le Cercle Francais" Are Not Able to Take Part Owing to Drills

This year there will be a change in the French Play. When the work began, about three weeks ago, "Les Ombres," was chosen by both "Le Cercle Francais" and "La Societe Francaise" in spite of the amount of work needed for the performance of a five-act play.

Since that time the members of "Le Cercle Francais" have found that they are too busy with their drill, that they want to study a great deal in this time of examinations, and that they are able to come only one evening a week for rehearsals. Moreover, many of the men who had kindly accepted a part are going away for the holidays, and under such conditions the play could not be performed before the end of January—but this is not possible.

Consequently, for this year the play will be given by members of "La Societe Francaise" alone—but they wish to thank heartily those gentlemen who have so faithfully rehearsed, until they found themselves too heavily burdened by their numerous activities.

The play had, of course, to be changed, and it has been decided to keep the title secret until a few days before the presentation. We may say only that it is a farce of the Middle Ages adopted by a very well-known French "academicien" and the tickets will soon be on sale for Saturday, January 16th, in the R.V.C. for the benefit of France-Amerique, by kind permission of the University. La Societe Francaise hope to receive the support of all students, in the future as in the past.

MEDS. DEFEAT THE THEOLOGS IN BASKETBALL

Score at Half-Time 17 to 14, but Medical Students Outplayed Their Opponents

The Medical students resident at the Wesleyan College last evening played a basketball game with a team picked from among the Theologs, who were forced to admit defeat after a fast game, in which it was evident that the honor of both sides was at stake.

From the first, fast basketball was played, Loughery, of the Meds., making the first basket in about ten seconds. Dean soon followed with another, and for a time it seemed as if the Theologs would go down to ignominious defeat. The Theologs, however, after a time struck their stride, and at half time the score stood 17 to 14.

The final score was 28 to 20.

The line-up was as follows:

Meds. Position Theologs
Loughery Centre Hyndman
Tennant Defence Campbell
McCreary Defence Cate
McDonald Forwards Bunt
Dean Forwards McCreary

UNION AT IOWA LACKS MEMBERS

Three Days Devoted to Canvass to Remedy This

It will be of interest to McGill to know that the University of Iowa are setting out on a special campaign to increase the membership of their Union. Three days have been devoted to a thorough canvass of the student body. The Iowa Union Bulletin, which tells something about the organization, and of its work at the university, has just been issued, and copies have been distributed to all the students.

The Iowa Union is the beginning of an institution which must at length prove of high service to all men in attendance at the university.

The organization affords a democratic clubhouse, a place of resort, a temporary waiting place for young men, open to every man member or not, and is eventually to be self supporting.

The Daily Iowan says: "There is no student in the university who does not recognize that the Iowa Union has established itself as the most democratic institution here; that its one purpose is the betterment of the social life of the men of the university; that it has become a factor in the affairs of the student body; that its purpose is to promote the general interests of the university."

STATEMENT BY MANY FRENCH UNIVERSITIES

The Case of the Allies in Present War Clearly Set Forth

GERMAN CLAIMS ARE DEICLISHED

Is Bomb Dropping and the Destruction of Cathedrals Justifiable?

Below we publish a translation of a document published by the French universities and mailed to universities throughout the world.

The document is self-explanatory and is as follows:

From the French universities to the universities of neutral countries:

The German universities have just protested against the accusations which have been made against their country on account of the war.

The French universities will limit themselves to submitting to you the following questions:

Who wanted this war?
Who, during the all-too-short respite given for the deliberations of the European powers, strove to find means of conciliation?

Who, on the other hand, refused all the successive proposals of England, Russia, France and Italy?

Who, at the precise moment when the conflict appeared to be quieting down, let loose the dogs of war, as if the propitious moment had been expected and waited for?

Who violated the neutrality of Belgium after having guaranteed it?

Who declared in respect to this matter that neutrality is a word, that "treaties are scraps of paper," and that in times of war one does as one pleases? Who regards as of no account the international conventions by which the signatory powers agreed not to use in the carrying on of a war, any means of force constituting a "barbarity" or "act of treachery," and to respect historic monuments, sacred edifices, buildings of science and art, and charitable institutions, except in such case where the enemy, missing their first, would employ them for military purposes?

Under what conditions was the University of Louvain destroyed?

Under what conditions was the Cathedral of Reims burned?

Under what conditions were numerous bombs dropped on Notre Dame Cathedral, Paris?

To these questions the deeds alone must answer.

Already you can consult public documents issued by the various governments, which are the results of investigations by neutrals, the evidence found in German diaries, and the testimony of the ruins in Belgium and France.

They constitute our evidence.

Against these it is too sufficient to utter demands supported only by a strong "word of honor," as have done the German representatives of Art and Science.

Nor will it suffice to say as the German universities do: "You know our learning, it could not make a nation of barbarians."

We know how valuable this learning has been, but we also know that, breaking away from the traditions of the Germany of Leibnitz, Kant and Goethe, the German thought has declared itself tributary to Prussian militarism, and carried away by it, aspires to universal domination.

Proofs of this expectation abound. Just the other day, a professor at Leipzig University wrote: "It is on our shoulders that the future of culture in Europe rests."

The French universities, however, still continue to believe that civilization is not the production of one unique race, but of all peoples, and that the intellectual and moral riches of humanity are created by the natural independence and variety of thought which is necessary to all national genius.

Like the armies of the Allies, they defend on their part the liberty of the world.

Dr. Welsh Amused Presbyterian Lit At Good Meeting

His Illustrated Lecture on "Punch" Was Much Enjoyed

The Reverend Dr. R. E. Welsh amused the Literary Society of the Presbyterian College last night by his highly humorous address on the subject of "Mr. Punch and his Merry Men."

The lecture was illustrated with slides reproduced with the special permission of Punch, all of which were up to the high standard of humor for which that paper is famous. The address itself was equally entertaining as the illustrations, and kept the audience in a decidedly good humor throughout the whole evening. Everyone may imagine the scene which a humorous lecture has in such a subject as this, and all those who were present last night know that Dr. Welsh took full advantage of the many opportunities which his subject presented. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. If the Lit. Soc. can secure any more speakers of Dr. Welsh's ability the future success of the society is assured.

Train and Practice

The turnout for the first hockey practice yesterday was very encouraging. Twenty-seven men were in uniform and these were all given a good try-out at one part of the practice or the other. One thing must be done immediately to the players and that is the absolute necessity of starting immediately to get into condition. It is better to warn the team now than to leave it till the time of the first game and then have to come out with the statement "Lack of training contributes mainly to Red and White's defeat."

The team that will win must be able to score a goal in the last few seconds of the time and to do this they must have a surplus of energy and stamina to let loose. The latter is only obtained by undergoing strict training and constant practice. Hockey material there is in good quantity, make it quality. Win those games and that championship.

What Frenchwomen Are Doing in Wartime

In the University Magazine for October is a moving little poem by Miss Linda Bradley, called "The Women of France." It is not only the form of this poem which is appealing, it is rather that the facts which it sets forth are in themselves impressive.

To us at McGill it seems very natural to pay tribute to the spirit of French women for we have had ample opportunity to become familiar with it. To us it is no surprise to learn that in the present crisis French women have shown a courage, fortitude, devotion and capability which make them worthy to be ranked with their gallant soldiers in the field—equally the children of a brave and gifted race.

"Women of France have brought the harvest in," writes Miss Bradley; and to us among many interesting facts received through private letters comes this that a Parisian lady, wife of a distinguished lawyer and sister of one of our late colleagues, is personally responsible for saving the harvest on a large estate from which every man and every horse had been detached for government service.

Another sister of that family has had constant charge of a ward of one of the great military hospitals in the south with such success that she has the assurance of having saved many lives for France.

To cope with the tremendous problems of providing for the destitute refugees from the war zone and the unemployed of Paris as well as to aid the wives and children of soldiers at the front strong committees of women have been formed, and on these we find the names, familiar and honoured at McGill, of Madame Milhaud-Puech and Mademoiselle Bianquis. From both these ladies come wonderful stories of the steadfastness and determination with which the working women of France are seconding the efforts of their men to fight the war of liberation, the holy war which they believe is to break the yoke of militarism. These women, who are supposed by Anglo-Saxons to be an excitable and noisy type took leave of their sons and husbands dry-eyed, and then settled to a life of almost incredible thrift and industry. The wife of a French private in active service gets twenty-five cents a day and an extra allowance of ten cents a day for each child; and this she declares to be enough if she has just a little paying work besides. She accepts almost any sort of work—plain sewing, cleaning, selling papers in the streets. To find work for these women is special work of Mademoiselle Bianquis, while Madame Puech specializes in the task of finding homes for the refugees. A recent report shows that by her personal efforts she has found homes in the safe regions of the west and south for two hundred and fifty destitute children—and the work goes on!

Both these friends of ours have near relatives in the fighting lines and we feel confident that men of such families are not there in vain, but for us the contribution of those who cannot go into battle seems also worthy of a distinguished service order.

It is pleasant to be able to record that in all the absorption of their present duties our one time colleagues have not forgotten McGill. "Are there any McGill men among the Canadian volunteers who come to strengthen us and the British?" asks one of them in a letter of early October. "I should expect so. It is a wonderful thing to feel that one is fighting the cause of Humanity, upheld by almost all the peoples of the world."

It is, indeed. Long live our alliance!

McGill Twenty-Four Months Ago

From The McGill Daily of December 12, 1912

At a meeting of the Science Undergraduate Society, Mr. Mayers of the Quaker Bridge Commission, read a very interesting paper on "Regulated Competition vs. Socialism." During the course of his speech he said that universities were the places where rational men were made out of the raw material which they received.

A regular meeting of the Alumni Society of the Royal Victoria College was held at 4:30 p.m. After tea had been served Dr. Bruce Taylor gave an address on Pepp's Diary. As this was written in a key which Pepp thought could never be deciphered, it reveals the spirit of the time (1860-1865) in a way which other diaries writing their works as pieces of literature could never do. In 1825 the manuscript was deciphered by finding the shorthand reports of some speeches written at the same time.

A large entry list has been received for the Novice Competitions, which are to be held in the Union on Saturday next. These competitions include all weights in boxing and wrestling, as well as fencing.

THE KRUPP STEEL WORKS

Krupp Plant Contains Thousands of Men—Essen Has Become a Gigantic Factory

The German city of Essen is Krupp's. Krupp is Essen. The erstwhile little Westphalian town has become one gigantic factory, dominated by the genius of this one family whose three generations built up the greatest cannon and armor industry the world has ever seen. Looking down on the town from one of the pleasant wooded heights on which Alfred Krupp planted the colonies for aged or disabled veterans of industry, one sees a forest of tall chimneys and dozens of huge, lofty workshops, marshalled like forts all round the habitations of men. On a nearer approach one discovers that some sixty factories make up this gigantic organization. Forty miles of standard railway link them together and carry their products abroad to the world, and thirty miles of narrow lines are required as auxiliary for the shops.

Forty thousand men, with 4,000 officials, make up the staff of this maze of factories and workshops in normal times. One can well believe how the staff has been increased in these astonishing days of war, when every German, great and small, realizes that the future of his Empire largely depends on the power and number of weapons which Krupp can place at the disposal of the armies of Germany and her Austrian ally. Besides this army corps of workmen at Essen, Krupp's have 10,000 miners digging the earth for coal in the firm's German colonies; 15,000 hands at the rolling mills of Aachen and Grusen, and the blast furnaces of Rheinhausen, Duisburg, Neur, and Engels; about 7,000 workmen at the firm's shipbuilding yard, the Germania at Kiel, and 5,000 ore miners in Spain. It is symptomatic of the immense importance attached by the German general staff to the continuance of work at Krupp's at the highest pressure that the general commanding the Rhine district has expressly refrained from calling up the Landsturm in order that the great national work may proceed unimpeded in this industrial region, where Krupp's is the leading concern.

The private hotel maintained by the firm at Essen for the accommodation of its foreign visitors is characteristic of the international character of the business done by Krupp's. Here, in days of peace, one met representatives of every civilized nation sent by their governments to this international arsenal to purchase the arms of war or the implements of peace. For half the Krupp works at Essen are devoted to what in normal times seems to be the peaceful work of commerce, but what in war time is an indispensable adjunct to the armies in the field. All that can be made of steel for railways is constructed here—wheels, axles, engine parts, and rails. At Essen the German liners, now the murderous commerce destroyers of the Atlantic and Pacific and Indian oceans, receive the huge castings for sternpost and stem and crank-shafts, and are furnished with the plates, frames, fine steel for tools, the spades and picks, troops entrenching themselves, and a dozen other varieties proceed from Essen.

But the foreigner, however impeccable his recommendations and references, only sees as much of Krupp's as the firm will let him. Foreign military attaches, entrained at the railway station, which is the rule of this famous house, have seen the high hopes built up on the warmth of their welcome dashed to the ground when it has come to seeing the workshops. They are hurried past here and hurried past there, and finally leave with a vague sense of vastness and method, but conscious of having signally failed to penetrate into the secrets of the concern. A good example of the secrecy wherewith Krupp's manage to envelope their affairs is seen in the huge siege guns, the calibre of which rumor puts as high as 16 inches, with which the Germans battered down the forts of Liege and Namur.

Though it is a joint stock company in which practically all the shares are owned by Frau Krupp Von Bohlen und Halbach, the only child of the late Alfred Krupp, the third proprietor, and her husband, the present managing director of the works, Krupp's is regarded by every patriotic German as a national possession. While Krupp's exists Germany will stand. This is the firm belief of every member of that nation in arms.

Among the many famous machines are the hydraulic shears, which cut through three inches of solid armor-plate as if it were cheese. Enormous bending presses of 10,000-ton pressure bend armor plates to any shape desired with infinite ease. The firm has its own waterworks, makes its own gas, and generates its own electricity. The gas works supply more gas for the factory town than is used annually in Munich, namely, 25,000,000 cubic metres. And yet the 40,000 gas jets distributed all over the establishment do not suffice for illuminating purposes, and electricity in the shape of 5,000 arc lamps and 30,000 incandescent lights has to be pressed into service. Over 400 steam boilers generate the steam for the 8,000 different machines and the 2,500 electric motors at work. More than 600 miles of cable and wire and over 800 telephone stations and twenty telegraph stations are required for the works.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence column. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the Faculty will be placed in print if they are not too long.

Editor McGill Daily:

Dear Sir:—The subject of two announcements which appeared in the Daily of the 11th inst. having no connection with one another are, however, in one respect linked very closely together. The University Settlement advertised a "fair" in aid of its mitigation of Leeds University includes a quotation from the speech of the recipient of an honorary degree, M. Emile Verhaeren, the Belgian poet. The latter described how the new spirit of Belgium had arisen out of the hardships which Fleming and Walloon had endured in common, and had made the Belgian the reverse of an individualist, co-operation and collective effort being very strong among the people.

Among the debts that British citizens owe to Belgium is the example of her effort to deal with the problem of infant mortality. The special interest of the Belgian example lies in the extent to which agencies for the purpose are the direct outcome of co-operative effort. The co-operative movement in Ghent inaugurated the "Babies' Clinic and School for Mothers," before such agencies were heard of in the British Isles, and whereas these institutions have been maintained in Great Britain and on the American continent by philanthropic effort, in time aided from municipal funds, in Belgium they were wholly the outcome of co-operative effort among people themselves, although in time they also obtained municipal support.

In 1906 an American woman resident in England and soon afterwards one of the North of England visited the women co-operators of Ghent, saw with astonishment and admiration their "Babies' Clinic and Mothers' Welcome," and the result that the first similar institution was opened in the North-west of London in 1907. A seed that had multiplied to 260 in 1913.

The working women of Belgium are much more generally organized in co-operative guilds and trades unions than are the working women of England. They have learned the art of creating their own organization against the ills of sickness, poverty, accident; and they amply illustrate the possibilities of self-help, an intelligent direction of conditions of life which may be developed for women equipped with a good education, such as is given to every one in Belgium, and who have a sense of responsibility as workers which adds dignity to themselves and to their labor.

It is a good sign that the "mothers" of the University Settlement are themselves responsible for the suggestion of a fair for the funds of the North-West and that much of the manual labor of preparation is contributed by them. An honor to their Settlement "Mothers." They are able to express themselves in the Settlement as true to the ideal of self help, and it must be the hope of all who work with them that the day may come when women of Montreal, by reason of a good education, and of opportunities of co-operative action, may do all that the women of Ghent achieved.

It may help to the understanding of the efficiency of the Belgian women in the present war to bear in mind that universal opportunity of education and practice in co-operation and self help. Herodas, backed by efficiency, arms a nation doubly in its women no less than in its men. Nor need it be thought that the thorough going economic defensive efforts of working men and women will limit their union to material prosperity. Belgian co-operators confound the materialist conception. It would be hard to find a parallel to the appreciation of Art evinced in the action of the workers of Ghent, who provided a studio and maintenance for the sculptors Van Hiesbroeck and his father, that the latter might devote their art to making beautiful the establishment conducted by the co-operators. And the beautiful reliefs by these artists set up in the cemetery of Ghent as memorials to workers are (if indeed they are left untouched by the German invasion), as worthy of attention for their intrinsic beauty and for their significance as are the beautiful individual portraits which mark the sites of the ancient cemeteries of Greece.

ANNETTE KELLERMAN.
Last appearance in Montreal in "Neptune's Daughter" at the Moulin Rouge.

THE COLONIAL.
The Colonial commences another big week by showing on Sunday and Monday "Mexican Hatred," in three parts, a stirring, gripping and dramatic western photoplay, telling of the terrible vengeance exacted by a spy's widow in the power of the guerrillas, also "Soul Mates," a laughable comedy featuring the inimitable Dot Farley. These are to be followed on Tuesday by "The Rebel," one of Klaw and Erlanger's three reel musical piece photoplays; a fine story of love and war, showing the principal characters as clumps at West Point before the Civil War; later various exciting incidents in connection with the war such as the blowing up of a bridge by the Union forces, which the Confederates are crossing at the time; the imprisonment of one Mason and his sensational escape, gradually leading up to the final act where the fair rebel (who is in disguise) is mistaken for the escaped prisoner, and shot, falling at the feet of the Confederate leader, who, on recovering consciousness, in the belief that he has killed her, commits suicide. She later recovers, and all ends happily. In addition will be shown latest pictures from the seat of war and Keystone and other comedies.

THE STRAND.

Sir Gilbert Parker's "Seeds of the Mighty."

It is the greatest screen production ever undertaken in America, and is the result of unlimited capital and the best trained talent, presided by a superb company of Broadway stars. It will be shown three days, commencing Monday the 14th. This play is reproduced from one of the best known books of this famous author, who has the distinction of having won success as a politician as well as a novelist. It is a high grade film, and contains French court scenes, duels, a battle, constant plotting and a love story.

On Saturday and Sunday "The Master Key" will again hold the boards with the fourth episode, showing a week before any of the other theatres, love, crime, mystery and a mine are the chief factors of this serial, and if you have not already started following each instalment do so at once and spend the most absorbing evening since you have first attended a picture theatre. It will grip you, thrill you, fascinate you, delight you, as it is a play for old and young alike, and appeals to all.

CHARLIE MCCARTHY WILL COACH BOXERS

Boxing Executive Are to be Congratulated for Securing Services
of One of Best Known All Round Athletes in Montreal

Harry O'Leary, president of the Boxing, Wrestling and Fencing Club, closed last evening with Charlie McCarthy, one of the best professional lightweights in Canada, and an all-round athlete, to take charge of the instruction of the boxing squad during the coming season. Efforts were made earlier in the season to secure the services of Frankie Fleming, champion featherweight of Canada, but when these failed McCarthy was approached, and readily consented to take over the duties held last year by Sergeant Blake, who is now at Salisbury Plains with the first Canadian contingent. McCarthy, who knocked out Kid Herman in the fourth round of their scheduled ten-round bout at the Canadian Club last evening, will take charge of the McGill squad after the holidays, and fit them to take part in the intercollegiate championships, to be held in Toronto toward the close of February. It will be impossible to start work with the boxing classes until after Christmas.

McCarthy has been for some years well known to followers of boxing in Canada. About four years ago he won the amateur lightweight championship of the Dominion at the competitions held at Toronto under the A. A. U. of C. While a resident of the West, he also won the title in his class on several occasions. His instruction will be especially valuable, as he has a good left hand, and the use of this is one of the most important points to be noticed in boxing. McCarthy originally hails from Ottawa, and is about 26 years of age. He entered the professional ring over two years ago, and has the record of having never lost a fight. Together with his record in the ring, McCarthy is known as one of the best all-round athletes in Montreal. He is at present a candidate for the coal position with the Wanderers, of the N. H. A., and has seen considerable experience in different parts of Canada in the hockey game. He played football with Ottawa before he became a professional, while his brother this year was a member of the M.A.A.A. team in the Big Four. McCarthy is also a

MCGILL SKI CLUB HOLDS MEETING IN STRATHCONA HALL
Officers Are Elected and a Meeting With Dartmouth
Is Discussed

The McGill Ski Club held its first meeting this season yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock in Strathcona Hall.
The business of the meeting was the election of officers and a discussion of the programme for this winter.
The officers elected for the season were: Norm Williamson was elected president, while Lee Strath was chosen to fill the position of secretary.
No other officers were deemed necessary, as the club was managed well
last season under these two men.
The possibility of a meeting with Dartmouth College was discussed, but no definite decision was reached. The McGill men met the American college last year and showed up well, winning
the Fresh-Sophomore debate, which is to take place on January 29. Miss Sally Cameron and Miss Ivadell Hurd
were chosen.

The great interest taken in the club
last year led the members to expect a very successful winter.

R.V.C. '18 DEBATORS CHOSEN.
A class meeting of R.V.C. '18 was held in the Math. room at 1 o'clock, on Wednesday to elect debaters for
the Fresh-Sophomore debate, which
is to take place on January 29. Miss Sally Cameron and Miss Ivadell Hurd
were chosen.

It is expected that Fleming, who has been a star player on the Washington and Jefferson College football teams during the past three years, will assist in coaching the Red and Black eleven next fall, as he will be ineligible to play.

TWENTY-SEVEN MEN TURN OUT TO HOCKEY

Fast Pace Set at Initial Practice of the Season Held Yesterday Afternoon at the Arena—Eric Parsons as Speedy and Tricky as Ever

The McGill hockey season of 1914-15 got off to a good start yesterday afternoon with a total of twenty-seven candidates on the ice at the Arena for the first practice of the year. This is considered an excellent showing, and proves that interest in the Canadian national winter sport is as great as ever at McGill. With the new material which put in an appearance, and the members of last year's senior and intermediate teams, who are available,
Coach Laurie Roberts should have sufficient strength at his command to round out a team which would make a strong fight for both the Intercollegiate and C.I.U. League championships.

For the initial practice of the season,
the Arena management provided a sheet of ice which was all that could be desired. Coach Laurie Roberts was on hand and put the candidates through their paces, giving each man an opportunity of showing what he could do.
Those out were the following: Mann,
Quilty, Andrews, Mullen, Doyle, Mar-
son, Kelly, Hunter, Eric Parsons, Todd, Morris, Montgomery, Rainboth, Rooney,
Rosen, Martin, Kendall, McGill, P. S.
Parsons, Brophy, Carroll, Chagnier,
Blair, Ferguson, Jacques, Mulcair.

Mann, Montgomery and Eric Parsons were the only members of last year's squad who were on the ice. Several on the list above were with the intermediates or junior squads, while the others are new to the game at McGill.
For so early in the season, a fast pace was set, which soon made evident the fact that several of the men were not in the best possible condition. A number had to retire with cramps or lack of wind before the first half of the hour was finished. Laurie Roberts at first divided his men into two bodies,
using Mann, Kendall, Quilty, Rainboth, Eric Parsons, Rooney and Marson as one seven, and the others together.
The two squads were given practice around the nets and kept Mann and Montgomery busy. Later, a number of the men were taken off the ice in order to round two even teams. Eric

Parson, Rainboth, Rooney and Marson working with the scrub defence and vice versa. Kendall and Quilty were used on the defence, both showing good form for so early in the season. Kendall appeared in fine shape, and showed that in checking and rushing he promises to make things interesting in the intercollegiate this winter. "Silver" Quilty featured with his dashes along the side, and seemed in perfect condition. He should prove a valuable addition to the squad when he strikes his stride as regards skating.
Perhaps the best work on the ice
was done by Eric Parsons and Len Rainboth in the centre positions. Parsons will again undoubtedly lead the way to intercollegiate centre ice men this season. He has lost none of his speed, and is as tricky as ever with his handling. The spectacular centre man promises to improve upon his performances of last winter, and should be the sensation of the league. Rainboth should work in well with the McGill attack. Rooney is a new man with much to recommend. From last year he was played on the wing line, and showed that he has the goods as regards both stickhandling and checking.
He has a consistent and steady style of play. Marson, who played on the other wing, is not in the best of condition, and fired soon after play was well under way. Of the others, Mc-Gill, Andrews, Parsons, Ferguson, Mulcair and Ross were probably the work on their showing yesterday. Mul-cair and Parsons are defence men,
while the others figure on the wings.
"Skitch" Scott was an absentee from the practice, owing to his drill hour conflicting. It is expected that he will be out at the next practice. On the bench is nursing an injured hip, but will be in line later on.
Fast practice and much of it, seems to be the most recent need of the squad at present. Efforts are being made to secure an additional hour at the Arena,
so that the men may get into condition as soon as possible.

"LADDIE" CASSELS
VARSITY CAPTAIN
"Laddie" Cassels, the husky Varsity middle wing, has been chosen to lead
the Blue and White through the football season of 1915. The choice was made by the players after the taking of the team pictures on Thursday.
"Laddie" was evidently the popular selection of the players, although a number of buddies outside the team had been pressing the claims of Charlie Gage to another captaincy. Cassels is the man who went over to the try which brought the intercollegiate championship to Varsity last season.

Eddie Mahan and Alex. Wilson have already been elected captains of the Harvard and Yale football teams for 1915. Mahan, who will follow Brick-ley as Harvard captain, is a brilliant halfback, and is considered one of the best footballers in the game to-day.
Brickley himself says he considers his successor the greatest living exponent of the American game. Wilson will be faced with the difficult task of retrieving Yale's reputation, now somewhat dimmed by the whitewashing administered by Harvard. He is a quarterback of great prowess, and has the reputation of being a very brainy player. Yale undergrads swear by him, but he has still to prove his ability as a leader.

INDIAN CONSERVATIONISTS.
Take Active Interest in Forest Protection.

The Indian has frequently—and not always unjustly—been accused of criminal carelessness with fire, and to the ancestral habit of setting out fires in order to improve grazing for buffalo has even been ascribed the cause of the prairies, on which trees are once more being grown. But owing to the present and example of Dominion fire-wardens this ingrained carelessness has—in northern Manitoba, at least—been supplanted by an enthusiasm for forest conservation.
Several hundred Indians last summer promised to observe every precaution to prevent forest fires, and, as the Chief Fire Ranger writes, "The fact of no fires this summer is proof positive that the majority of them have faithfully kept their pledge." During the course of the summer sixty-three Indians voluntarily visited the Chief's headquarters to discuss the plans of the Forestry Branch in the matter of conserving the remaining forests in western Canada.

Many of these Indians are sufficiently well educated to serve as fire-rangers, and, following its policy of obtaining the best men possible for this work, the Dominion Government has enlisted quite a number of Indians in the fire-ranger service, for which their knowledge of the country and their enthusiasm for the work make them admirably adapted. Although the forest-fire loss on the 125,000 square miles of Crown timber land patrolled by Dominion fire-rangers was very small—the area of timber burnt over being less than nine onehundredths of one per cent (0.09%)
—yet this low loss was not a little due to the frequent showers of rain during the danger season. In order to insure safety in seasons of drought,
the Forestry Branch proposes to install lookout stations which will increase the efficiency of the yet somewhat inadequate patrol. Already several towers have been established, enabling rangers to scan at one glance several hundred square miles of country.
Wireless telegraphy has also been brought into use and from The Pas
and Fort Churchill it is now possible for the rangers in these remote regions to communicate almost instantly with the Forestry Branch at Ottawa in matters of special urgency. This is probably the first practical application of wireless telegraphy to forest fire protection in America or elsewhere.

READY SOON

All efforts are being made to have the campus rink ready for skating as soon as possible. For the last few days the slides have been steadily put into place and now all is ready to make ice.

Already the fence has come into use.
Last Thursday C Company had a few sections, and they were drilled in climbing over a fence and reforming on the other side. This will come into much practical use in manoeuvres, and in this manner the rink aids more than it hinders those drilling on the campus.

Jimmy says that all is in readiness, and that he will be made as soon as the first snow falls. In any event, the rink will open before the end of the Christmas vacation.

Regulation British Army Blue pattern

The most comfortable, convenient and compact sleeping kit or the market. Made of specially prepared "Watertite" duck, brown color, all edges bound with cowhide leather. Roll at head for personal clothing and pocket for feet. Cover flap of good width and full length with straps and buckles to hold securely down.

with malleable iron rings for attaching to transports. The sides are raised and fitted with eyelets and lacing cord to keep mattress in place

The attention of the McGill men is again drawn to battalion order No. 19. It is hoped that two hundred and fifty men can be secured. They will be given special training during the Christmas holidays by the McGill officers. It is desired that the men taking the drill will enlist for active service, but it is understood that this is not compulsory.

Lieut.-Col. Robert Starke, officer commanding McGill University Battalion, C.O.T.C. Overseas Contingent:—

All members of the battalion desirous of serving in the Canadian Expeditionary Forces during the period of the war, are requested to hand in their names to their company commanders as soon as possible.

It is the intention that those volunteering will formally enlist for active service at the end of the present college year.

A. R. CHIPMAN, Captain and Adjutant, December 4, 1914.

DRILL NOTICES

It was learned from Acting Major Magee last night that the C. O. T. C. drills will continue to the 19th. From then to the 23rd drills will be held, but will be voluntary. They will be resumed on January 5th, at the beginning of the second term.

REGIMENTAL BAND TO HAVE PHOTO TAKEN

Picture for the McGill Annual at 1:30—Parade with Regiment at 2:15

Bandmen assemble at 1:30 in the Strathcona Hall for the band picture. The picture will be taken without great coats, so let every man be careful to come in full uniform so as to avoid delay.

The band will accompany the regiment at 2:15 in their regular parade. C. R. GIBBS, Bandmaster.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

All members of the class are requested to be present in the Macdonald Physics Building at 8 p.m. Tuesday, 15th of December, in order to sign and affirm the necessary Declaration of Secrecy required from every radio-telegraph operator.

This Declaration, to be valid, must be made before a judge or notary public. The Hon. R. S. Weir, member of Corporation, has been kind enough to offer his help to the class in his official capacity on Tuesday night.

A. S. EVE.

STEEL INDUSTRY FOR MONTREAL

Financial men in Montreal are still speculating over the probable outcome of the visit of Chas. M. Schwab, head of the United States Steel Corporation, to his city a short time ago.

It is rumored that during his visit he made an offer of $5,000,000, which was afterwards raised to $6,000,000, for the plant of the Canadian Vickers-Maxim, Ltd. Members of the Canadian board of the Vickers firm are very reticent as to the truth of this, but so far it has not been definitely denied.

It is said that while over in England, Mr. Schwab was given huge war orders, which he has to complete within twelve months. Among these is an order for sub-marines amounting to $50,000,000, and consequently Mr. Schwab has to look around for a place to build them in Canada. It is reported that while in England he also got the consent of the English shareholders, that providing the Canadian directors were agreeable, they would sell out their undertaking here. In the event of this industry coming to Montreal it will usher in a new era of ship building in Canada.

GYMNASIUM CLASS

The regular gymnasium class to have been held at 5:15 this afternoon has been cancelled.

THE WAR BETWEEN GREAT BRITAIN AND TURKEY

Correspondence of Events Leading to the Rupture of Relations With Turkey

A very interesting publication, recently issued by the Government, under the heading of miscellaneous, No. 13, 1914, is a paper which gives the whole of the correspondence, from August 3rd onwards, preceding the breaking of diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Turkey.

In perusing it, admiration of the same, cool, wise, thoughtfully-prepared and carefully-fair attitude of the British Ambassador and of the Foreign Office, must appear in the minds of each reader. The telegrams and other correspondence tell their own story; comment, explanation, or even synopsizing, is almost superfluous. It is true that a knowledge of the precise methods by which the Germans secured and maintained their ascendancy over the Turkish Government would be interesting. No less interesting would be a full knowledge of the precise methods which they followed in their preparation for active attacks, against Great Britain and the Allies, in the various spheres which influence the possessions formerly Turkish. It is quite evident that the German party completely dominated Turkish policy. It is evident that the Goeben and the Breslau were under German orders, and that, in great part, Turkish military powers were organized and directed by the German party, with the intention of acting to the detriment of the allied interests.

Although the British Government had full knowledge of the importation of large amounts of money, and of large amounts of war-like munitions into Turkey, diplomatic relations were not broken off until after the Russian ambassador on the fourth of November, Constantinople as a result of the bombardment, by Turkish ships, of Russian towns on the Black Sea. It was only after his colleague had withdrawn that the British ambassador left Constantinople on the fourth of November, and that, although he had received information, ten days previously, of Arab raids which, emanating from Turkish territory, had had for their object the destruction of the Suez canal.

THE GERMAN SPIRIT

(From the Berlin Kreuz Zeitung.) Speaking frankly, and as true Germans, we would see every movement, every step that tells the history of France, every picture, though it be a work of semi-dilettante conception, utterly destroyed rather than that the glorious work that has been given to the German race to perform in the world should be hindered by even so much as one of its own people. The world can be revitalized, society enabled and refined, only through the German spirit. The world must, for its own salvation, be Germanized.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—The women of the University will edit the March number of the Gargoyle, the University humorist, publication, says a dispatch to the Detroit Free Press. The women editors will be Miss Alice Wilard, Detroit, editor, and the Misses Margaret Foote, of Muskegon, and Phyllis Povah, of Detroit, associate editors.

Nebraska.—The second "University mixer" will be held on Friday, December 11. A large crowd attended the last one and a larger one is expected at this one.

Wisconsin.—Because a number of students have complained against the color of blue for uniforms, a straw vote will be taken to ascertain whether it shall be changed to olive drab.

According to St. Louis University athletic officials, the annual Thanksgiving Day next year will be with the Carle Indian eleven. Negotiations have been practically completed.

The Geneva College football team has elected Harry McCarter captain for next year. He played left half-back this fall. He will have 16 letter men with which to start the next season.

sprinter of note, and has done the hundred yards in 19.25 seconds.

McCarthy's new instructor is very anxious to enter upon his duties at the college, where he knows many students, and will undoubtedly prove very popular. Candidates for the team will feel assured that he will have their interests at heart as he will throw all his attention into the instruction of the men.

McCarthy will find plenty of material to begin work upon when practices start immediately after Christmas. Among those who will be on hand, besides a large amount of new material, will be Lorne Montgomery, of the 115 class; Harry O'Leary, 158 class; Norm Forbes, 125 class, and W. Banfield, 115 class. Practice horses and other information will be announced as soon as college re-opens after the holidays.
